Bridges between research and practice

How can the link between academic research on University Lifelong Learning (ULLL) and professional practice on teaching and learning in ULLL be strengthened? How can the exchange between these two spheres be organised in such a way that reciprocal benefits and mutual learning is likely to take place? How can the European policy debate on LLL in Universities reach out to the wider expert community in adult education?

European Space for Dialogue

The development and promotion of a European space for DIALOGUE will be reached by exploring models of good practice in the transfer of research results to professional practice on the one hand and by involving practitioners in research activities on the other hand. National and international networks are a key element in the realisation of these objectives. All partners of the network will, based on their national experiences and findings, contribute to the development of final recommendations aiming at the promotion of a sustainable ULLL DIALOGUE.

Best practices and barriers

The partners collaborate through four continuous working groups focusing on the four following themes:

- Access and Progression
- New Media
- Learning and Guidance
- Quality

All partners will explore examples of best practice and produce and discuss case studies to identify the main barriers and to find out common solutions for the creation of a real DIALOGUE.

Networks

Networks between researchers and professional practitioners form a substantial part of the project and its aim to create a European space for DIALOGUE.

By strengthening the links between academic research and professional practice, the project will support the collective production of knowledge and the interactive exchange of information, which reinforces the evolution of LLL.
